To forget you is to hide
There is still so much left to recover
If only we could start again Pretending we don't know each other I could not come back the same, this city's changed
It's not what it was back when you loved me
Walking down that path we made
When we thought what we had was such a good thing Hiding out inside my head
It's me again, it's no surprise I'm on my own, no
Every time I turn to you I see the past
It's all that lasts and all I know, oh
Learn to look me in the eyes
Yet I still don't feel it's me you're facing
Say your heart is always mine
What about old times, you can't erase them
Wishing we could only find one another
All we've done here is blind one another
Hate can't live in this heart here forever
Have to learn how to make it together The way you scream like something else as a man
The way you scream like something else as a man
The way you scream like something else as a man Baby, I was there and I held him
I was there and he put it all on me
Baby, I was there and I held him
Right there where no one else could see Took me into his arms, told me that I was the reason Told me that I was the woman he'd always be losing, always dreaming Dream on, dream on, dream on, dream on
Dream on, dream on
Dream on, dream on, dream on, dream on, dream on, dream on Dream on
They say you love every single part
What about my dreams?
What about the heart?
Trouble from the start
Trouble with the heart
Ah, trouble with the heart
