

I Promise You

Judith Owen

In the morning, when i wake dear, your memory comforts me.
in the darkness, when i'm frightened,
i can see in my dreams.
Though i'm far dear, though were parted,
i know that time can change nothing.
so if you feel afraid, and if your hope is gone,
just remember all these things i promise you.
I will move heaven,
i will move hell and earth to be where you are.
i will move heaven,
and it might take my life,
it might take forever,
but i promise you.
As i sail through, stormy seas dear,
you come to still my heart.
as i walk through, a path of danger,
you lead me through the dark.
Though i'm far dear, and though were parted,
i know that time can change nothing.
so if you feel alone, and if your faith is gone,
just remember all these things i promised you.
I will move heaven,
i will move hell and earth to be where you are.
i will move heaven,
i will move hell and earth to be where you are.
i will move heaven,
and it may take this life,
it may take forever,
i promise you.
i promise you.
