

Come Home

Luminate

You're best friends with the word regret
You're afraid that your life's been wasted
So why hope if it's only gonna let you down? You don't think people really change
You're a mess and you'll always be the same
And you doubt if you'll ever get it turned around So you've been running, searching for something
But you're looking in a place you don't belong
But it's never too late, you can't outrun grace
No, mercy doesn't care what you've done So come home
So come home
You can try to fix your broken empire
Put bricks on a cracked foundation
But you'll be building castles on the sand There's power in the blood of Jesus
Your father's screaming just come home
And he's reaching out His hands I know you been running, searching for something
But you're looking in a place you don't belong
Well, it's never too late, you can't outrun grace
No, mercy doesn't care what you've done So come home
So come home From the shadows, from the wrong roads
From the darkness, from the unknown
To redemption, something beautiful
To a new love, to a new home
I know you been running, searching for something
But you're looking in a place you don't belong
And it's never too late, you can't outrun grace
No, mercy doesn't care what you've done So come home
So come home
