

Odyssey

The Accidentals

Outside the lake's a cataract
It stares up at the sky blind to the aftermath
We all attend a nameless funeral
You could say it's sad, but reason has to call it beautiful So I burn my clothes the ones I curse when I'm alone and I trace the night an architect of shattered sky and all the things I fear fade away with the coming year A resolution in the chaos that I made but I'm not weak
my brain's a hurricane
Of sky and sea
Poseidon's set a broken
curse on me
I'm not the one who bleeds
with every odyssey
Our new deceit's an old perfume
It masks nostalgic times forgotten crimes die in the fumes But polaroids still hang in darkened rooms The kids these days hold tight to each other in the womb and I shovel days into the dirt and dust and fray and I keep the score of everything I have in store I got good at feeling pain until no obstacles remained A resolution in the chaos that I have made
But I'm not weak
my brain's a hurricane
Of sky and sea
Poseidon's set a broken
Curse on me
I'm not the one who bleeds
with every odyssey
Feel the weight of cold upon your shoulders from the lake The words you drowned leave a bitter taste inside your mouth Whatever you have sheathed will throw itself against your teeth until you have the guts to let it out
but I'm not weak
my brain's a hurricane
Of sky and sea

curse on me
I'm not the one who bleeds
with every bruise that blooms on me
But I'm not weak
my brain's a hurricane
curse on me
with every odyssey
