

If You Need a Reason

Mason Jennings

Got so lost that I went to church
Sorry god but you made it worse
Made me sit behind the fence Haunted by the evidence
I guess you don't want me to think so instead I'll dream and drink
Got too drunk to drive home
In the cab, I grabbed my phone and made a call I might regret to a girl that I just met. Lately things are not okay.
I just wanted to hear somebody say if you need a reason as to why you're here, you don't need to look farther than me Lovely, lovely quiet lake how can this be a mistake too dark now to see your face Your hair is blowing all over the place
The moon is caught in a frozen glass we could not let this moment pass The sun is waiting far away until I have the chance to say all that's missing, all that's lost every hope at any cost Every dream too good to come true floods my heart when I'm with you If you need a reason as to why you're here you don't need to look farther than me
Got so lost that I went to church
Sorry god, but you made it worse
Made me sit behind the fence, haunted by the evidence
I guess you don't want me to think, so instead I'll dream and drink
Got too drunk to drive home
things are not okay. I just wanted to hear somebody say If you need a reason as to why you're here you don't need to look farther than me oh, if you need a reason as to why you're here, you don't need to look farther than me
