

Perfect Replacement

Example

I've told too many girls I loved 'em
I've told too many girls they're the one
So why am I sitting here all alone
How do you measure fun? I've called lost property too many times
And I can't live properly a piece of me died
I wasn't aware that Mona Lisa cried
Maybe I remembered my decent side
Wash the kisses off my neck
And lock my past in the basement
I need to find your perfect replacement
Let's start - you've torn him apart
He had a lotta heart for the heartless bastards
So sad, sad it ain't lasted
Scream like you mean like if you wanna go faster
'Cause he'll never slow down
Tears of a clown like bits of motown
Found what he needs and his heart still bleeds but he'll never take a ride on your merry-go-round We'll never know what we may find Find on the other side
We'll never know what we may find I've called property too many times
And I can't live properly a piece of me died
I wasn't aware that Mona Lisa cried
Maybe I remember my decent side
Wash the kisses off my neck
And lock my past in the basement
I've found your perfect replacement
Hope you remember my love
Remember my name
Put a message in the post up
I hope you get it by may
Lock my past in the basement
I've found your perfect replacement I've found something, never need your nothing again
I've found something, never need your nothing again
I've found something, never need your nothing again
I've found something, never need your nothing again
I've found something, never need your nothing again
Who's laughing now? I've found your perfect replacement Lock my past in the basement
I've found your perfect replacement
