

Some Winters

Weyes Blood

You won't hold me in my arms any more.
We've paid our price, learned from the sores.
I'm already gone, the house of stone we built has turned into sand.
And you know I'd still hold your hand.
A hope I can't conceal, the memory how we used to feel. Some winters end in loss and pain, and thus all love ended in shame. Shame ... that i was broken as a woman can be,
and I think don't you'll ever see the hours of the dawn that I still suffer on Some winters end in loss and pain and thus all love ended this way In shame Go on leave me for the last time You can't save me again
again
Oh love is what you get who knows how to start when it ends And I wish we could still be friends but we wont end that way sometimes there is just no more to say Some winters end in loss and pain and thus all love ended in shame
In shame
