

My New Wires

Parabelle

I said I'm sorry,
sorry for what I did,
does it make you cry?
oh no,
does it make you cry?
oh no, why don't you reach a little further and through the pieces I don't need.
I am ashamed that you could once see me without the parts that make me real.
Now this is my proof and you don't need to see violate me now
and drag me screaming,
my new wires are so frail,
they could be the death of me
out by the stormy waters.
Do you think you could cry out,
do you think you could right now, you'll be the death of me now. Why don't you reach a littler further cuz you're giving up when I want it all and there's a place where our past resides but it's colder than it looks, it's older than you thought, cuz I'm set on reason and weak eyes you're set on force we're on the same course, we're starting strong but we're starting lost
my new wires are so frail,
they could be the death of me
out by the stormy waters.
Do you think you could cry out,
do you think you could right now, you'll be the death of me somehow. it's a burden to cover up that hole where your hope endured it's gonna take so long, just cut the cord and nothing more! I said I'm sorry,
sorry for what I did,
does it make you cry?
does it make you cry? my new wires are so frail,
they could be the death of me

out by the stormy waters.
Do you think you could cry out,
do you think you could right now, you'll be the death of me, somehow.
Out by the stormy water, you'll be the death of me now.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.omusic.in/>