

Love Goes On

Kelly Clarkson & Aloe Blacc

If then was now
And I had you back somehow
I would hold you more
I should have told you more
If now was then
And we were together again
I would listen more
But now I miss you more
And never, I've been to a dark place
Stared loneliness in the face
At the lowest of my lows
There ain't nothin' so broken
Love can't heal, I feel
Every day I grow older
Time reveals, reveals
That nothing's really gone
We bring the past along
And love goes on
That nothing's really gone
We bring the past along
And love goes on
In my dreams
You would come to me
Through the door
Like before
When I wake
Every breath I take
Is for you
Now would do
Whatever to look upon your face
I wish I could change my place
Will this pain ever go?
There ain't nothin' so broken
Love can't heal, I feel
Every day I grow older
Time reveals, reveals
That nothing's really gone
We bring the past along
And love goes on
That nothing's really gone
We bring the past along
And love goes on
How do I fill this emptiness?
How do I fill this emptiness?
This heaviness I bear

How do I go on giving my all

When part of me isn't there?

Yeah

Oh, baby There ain't nothin' so broken

Love can't heal, I feel

Every day I grow older

Time reveals, reveals

That nothing's really gone

We bring the past along

And love goes on

That nothing's really gone

We bring the past along

And love goes on
