

Existential Hero

311

Whole world! From the high country to the bottom of the sea I caught a place that I needed to be it comes and it goes, the momentary glory then, quick as they came they're down the drain another one coming from a shallow place will not remain remember when what was possible would never end now we abide by limits I cannot defend it fits good and yet the best we reject you get what you get I guess don't get upset Where is that garden of eden under stars and the trees and and so far, so far from the heathens planets follow patterns, we fall into seasons flowing like a river we broaden and deepen Hold on, before we are gone got lots to do but time with you keeps on sliding and I keep on blowing a fuse, there you go unseen, your face in the screen I feel your attention dividing but this is worth more than the news Prepare to bare all I paint the cave walls I am the hobbit with the ring in the forrest I am the richest I am the poorest a particle I vibe I just keep dancin' I move from this world into a mansion of light and love as below and above I chart the planets and the whales migration I'm home everywhere I run the station the last light of a dying star in every game I am that wild card I participate I'm paleolithic and geology and astrophysics a true cowboy existential hero I compiled that deck and named it tarot I'm in play I want the ball I'm buddha with amnesia then sudden recall Somehow I fell into it all again, it all again somehow I fell into it all again, it all makes sense somehow I fell into it all again, it all make sense somehow it was here all along
