

Rosalyn

Thad Cockrell

Why the rounded shoulders, kid
Take that heart down off your sleeve
The way you walk around this town
You think you own the corner on the market of a broken heart
Well have I got some news for you
You're not the only one that's stood there where you are You've had your share of love that's come and gone
You always seem to leave them wondering where you are
Rosalyn
Don't you know the sun will shine on you again
No matter how small the flame
Against the darkness
Don't you know the light will win
Rosalyn (Ooh, ooh)
Rosalyn
I saw you from across the way
I can tell someone's handed it to you
Early morning down and blue, cigarettes and coffee
Doing things alone that were meant for two
I remember when you said to me
There will be someone that will set me free
I know that it's true
You might think love fades away
But it won't die, it burns inside of me and you
Rosalyn
Don't you know the sun will shine on you again
No matter how small the flame
Against the darkness
Don't you know the light will win
Rosalyn (Ooh, ooh)
Rosalyn
Rosalyn
Don't you know the sun will shine on you again
No matter how small the flame
Against the darkness
Don't you know the light will win
Rosalyn (Ooh, ooh)
Rosalyn (Ooh, ooh)
Rosalyn
Why the rounded shoulders kid
And take that heart down off your sleeve
