

Looking

Ziggy Marley

my frustration won't subside I've been tried time after time but it's not my style to quit there is more to life than this in obscurity or fame we're all playing in this game searching for something searching for something looking, looking, looking, you will find find you will be fine Saturday in the morning and the rain kept falling brother didn't get no sleep now he's really feeling beat but there is no time to waste as the devil test his faith he just walks away on a mission to complete looking, looking, looking, you will find find you will be fine looking oh find you will be fine she has her hand on her jaw as she wonders away what will tomorrow bring will her dreams just disappear she find words are hard to say so she prays everyday she must find a way may the pieces fall into place frustration won't subside I've been tried time after time
searching for something searching for something looking, looking, looking, you will find find you will be fine
searching for something, looking for something
