

Evergreen

Ben Howard

Christmas flared amongst us and we called it evergreen Built a world without your love and I built it mean Christmas flared amongst us
and we called it evergreen
Built a world without your love
now I'm all out at sea Take me back to the catacombs (I am tempted by her love) Bluest eyes against my own skin
(I have never been so caught up)
Looking around I see memories (what it was, oh, what it was)
There in the crowds you said something but I can't remember what
And my mother cursed the town for closing me down
Closing me down
Take me back to the catacombs (I am tempted by her love)
Bluest eyes against my own skin
(I have never been so caught up)
Looking around I see memories
(what it was, oh, what it was)
There in the crowds you said something
but I can't remember what
And my mother cursed the town for
closing me down
Closing me down
